CANADIAN MINING HALL OF FAME CALLS FOR 2024 NOMINATIONS

TORONTO, March 15, 2023 – The Canadian Mining Hall of Fame has issued its 2024 Call for Nominations. Each year, the CMHF reaches out through its broad network in search of outstanding individuals for consideration by the Board for induction into the Canadian Mining Hall of Fame at the annual induction celebration. Through their leadership and achievements, individual nominees must have shaped Canada's global leadership in mining, embodied the important role mining plays in Canadian society, and inspired future generations into mining.

"Canada's mining industry is at the forefront of the world's energy transition and Canada is well-positioned to lead the supply of future-facing minerals and metals. This generational opportunity will capitalize on our industry's past successes. The Canadian Mining Hall of Fame celebrates the leadership that has built the mining sector into what it is today through current Members and future inductees," said Janice Zinck, Chair of the Canadian Mining Hall of Fame and Executive Director, Geoscience and Mines, Department of Natural Resources and Renewables, Nova Scotia.
